Description	Rationale
Literacy skills will foster independence, critical thinking, comprehension and fluency in reading and writing for all students across all grade levels and in the content areas.	Based on ISAT results only 19.7% of Special Education students met/exceeded in Reading and 49.1% of LEP students met/exceeded, as a consequence both groups did not reach Safe Harbor (29.7% for Special Ed and 53.6 for LEP students).
Through the teaching and learning of best practices of mathematical skills, students will increase the overall meet and exceed in Math ISAT across all grade levels.	Based on ISAT results 69.8 % of LEP students met/exceeded in Math , consequently not reaching 75.6% for Safe Harbor. Special Education students met/exceeded ISAT's Safe Harbor for more than 2%, indicating that this population still needs strong interventions.
Integration of technology will substantially increase in every classroom to prepare students for the XXI century and to become critical thinkers to compete globally.	Technology will equip students with skills necessary to survive in a complex, highly technological knowledge-based economy. Providing more computers in each classroom will foster a regular and more accessible support for curricular goals.
Carson school will foster a community climate and provide a myriad of opportunities for parents and community members to increase their knowledge in several areas aimed at supporting their children to be successful in school.	According to the 2011 School Report Card in Parent Satisfaction, regarding Engagement only 50% of parents reported feeling engaged with their school. Regarding Environment 51% of parents report feeling satisfied with our school's environment. In both items the school shows an average score.
