Roman Society Debate	 How did the government of the Roman Republic solve problems of the empire? What makes a society like Rome just? How can one constructively debate with my peers? 	 Democracy is the most popular form of government today. Different countries have varying degrees of democracy, and many countries still struggle with ensuring that as many people as possible participate in government. The government of Ancient Rome is often referred to as the first "democracy" in the world, and in comparison to other governments at the time, the Roman government, particularly its Senate, is considered revolutionary by many historians. ¿Quien Soy?: Through the Eyes of the Aztecs & Conquistadors	 How is history written? How do we know which version of a story to believe? What really happened during the Spanish conquest of the Aztecs? 	 History is a STORY told from various perspectives, not a set of unchanging facts in a textbook. The stories we tell about our past are often written by the victors and other perspectives get lost or forgotten. When we read conflicting accounts of a historical event, we need to keep in mind what makes each account believable or biased. From Book to Screen	How do people form artistic opinions when they see a story presented two different ways?	The Aztec perspective of the Spanish conquest is vastly different from the Spanish perspective. We must carefully read BOTH accounts and acknowledge BOTH perspectives to get a balanced idea of what really happened! Everyone has different opinions about works of art, such as novels and films, and in order to have meaningful conversations about such art, critics must be able and willing to examine works analytically, finding common language to describe how the artists tell their stories, whether on the page or on the screen. Justice & Injustice In Our Community	 What is justice? How do we know something is unjust? What is the most effective way to address acts of injustice in our society today? 	 The concepts of justice and injustice are complex. People in different time periods and countries across the world have had different ideas of what a just and unjust act are. Our worldview and morals are often defined by what we think is just or "fair." However, in many situations, it can be hard to determine exactly what is "fair" or "just." Addressing acts of injustice in the past has historically been difficult but has resulted in progress in our society. Checkpoint	Literature Circles
Cognitive Skills	 Development Norms / Active Listening Theme/Central Idea Word Choice
Objective	 Participate in literature circles to practice the cognitive skills of word choice, theme, and development. Ensure you are an active group member.
Activities	 Literature Circle 1(see attached sample) Literature Circle 2 Literature Circle 3
Resources	Theme information sheet

	 Audio book- House on Mango Street PDF- House on Mango Street
Assessment	Performance task assessment using cognitive skills (See attached Sample)

Directions:

- Choose a facilitator for each category and a recorder
- Have the Recorder share this document with all members of Literature Circle and teachers:
- (Individually) Go to the category that you are facilitating.
- Highlight TWO of the questions you would like to ask the group.
- Share these with your group. Make sure everyone highlights the questions you shared.
- Then, individually, answer ONE highlighted question from the PLOT, SETTING, & CHARACTER categories. (You do NOT need to answer Word Choice or Theme just use your journals!)

CATEGORY	SUGGESTED DISCUSSION QUESTIONS
PLOT	 What are the most important events so far? Have there been any surprises or significant changes in the plot? How have these events influenced characters or theme? What do you predict will happen next?
SETTING	 Where does the book take place? In what time period? What are some characteristics of the time period? (think social class, race, etc.) How does the setting influence how the characters think? What connections can we make to our own communities?
CHARACTER	 What do we know (factually) about the main character? What are their personality traits? What motivates them? What are their primary opportunities and challenges?
WORD CHOICE	 What are some significant words in the book? What does this word tell us about the main character(s)? How does it connect to other characters or a theme? What do we think the title means?
THEME	 What are the main themes - repeated words, phrases, or ideas - so far? What message or moral is linked to each theme? What do these themes tell us about the characters? How does each theme contribute to our understanding of how people react and respond to one another?

Discuss and record (Recorder)

During your literature circles, your teacher will assess you and your peers on the following skills:

- Theme/Central Idea
- Development
- Word Choice
- Norms/Active Listening

As you discuss in Literature Circles with your group, your teacher will give you written and/or spoken feedback on these scores.

Cog Skill: Narrative

1 Incomplete	2 Not Passing	3 Passing	4 Strong Performance for 7th Grade	5 Above Grade
Orientation, storyline, and/or organization of experiences, events, and/or steps is unclear or missing. (Work is missing)	Orientation, storyline, and/or organization of experiences, events, and/or steps are loosely established; experience/event/step sequence may not be logical or unfolds awkwardly; conclusion may be missing.	Orientation (including point of view), storyline, and/or organization of experiences, events, and/or steps are clearly established; organizational sequence is logical or unfolds naturally; narrative techniques are primarily limited to description and/or dialogue; conclusion may be weak.	Orientation (including point of view), storyline, and/or organization of experiences, events, and/or steps are clearly established; organizational sequence is logical, coherent, and/or unfolds naturally; where appropriate, multiple narrative techniques are used (e.g., description, dialogue, pacing, or reflection); description includes some precise vocabulary and some details and/or sensory language; conclusion generally follows from the narrated experiences/events/steps.	Same as 4, pluswhere appropriate, vivid details and sensory language; conclusion clearly follows from the narrated experiences/events/steps.

Cog Skill: Conventions (Use of Punctuation to Manage Sentence Structure)

1 Incomplete	2 Not Passing	3 Passing	4 Strong Performance for 7th Grade	5 Above Grade
No evidence of using the conventions of the discipline.	Uses the conventions of the discipline with major errors that severely impede understanding.	Uses the conventions of the discipline with a cumulative pattern of minor errors that impede understanding.	Uses the conventions of the discipline with some minor errors that occasionally impede understanding.	Uses the conventions of the discipline appropriately; some minor errors, while noticeable, do not impede understanding.
This means: We were unable to assess your knowledge of punctuation in sentence structures, because we did not see it happening one way or another.	This means: You clearly attempt to punctuate your sentence structures, but you make mistakes that often obscure the meaning of your sentences.	This means: You make mistakes with your punctuation here and there, but we also see generally that you understand how to do it.	This means: Your sentence structures, whether simple, compound, or complex, are accurately punctuated and demonstrate - only a few problems.	This means: Your use of punctuation is accurate within a variety of sentence structures and helps them flow with logic and clarity.

When you finish this activity, in order to be ON TRACK, you must:

- have a finished Exposition that introduces the topic/situation
- a clear theme statement for the narrative

Example:

The theme of Roll of Thunder is that a person's growth is influenced by his/her experiences.

Explanation:

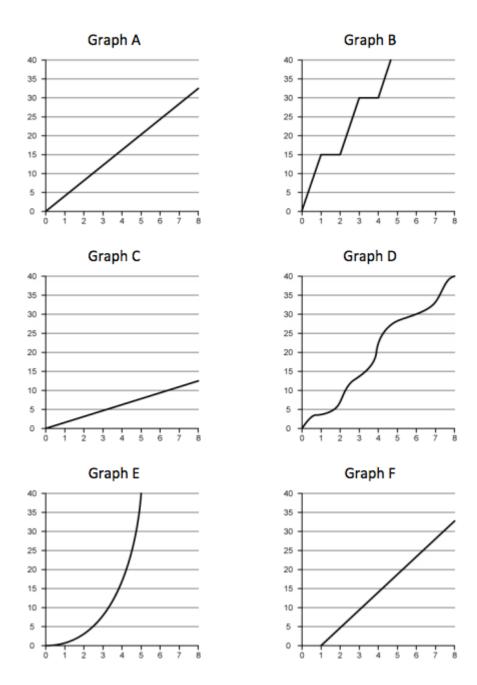

- 1. A theme is a message about a topic, this is the core reason for sharing the story.
- 2. The theme should be SHOW, not TELL
- 3. The theme should be shown throughout the narrative
- 4. The best way to show theme is by showing the thoughts and feelings of the main character:
 - a. Use Interior Monologue: an expression of the character's thoughts and feelings
 - b. Use Dialogue: two or more characters having a conversation
 - c. Think about what you character wants from the situation: for the enemy to be defeated, for family to return, revenge, change, etc.

	Proportional Relationships - Performance Task
1.	For each relationship below, identify whether the relationship is proportional. Explain why the relationship is or is not proportional. a. the relationship between your age and your height.
	 b. the relationship between the number of pages in a book and the thickness of a book.
	c. the relationship between the length of a square and the area of a square.
2.	You're baking a cake. The ratio of cups of milk to cups of water to eggs in the recipe is 2 ½:2. If you want to triple the recipe, what should the new ratio be?
3.	15 paperclips of equal size weigh 2 grams altogether. Is the number of paperclips proportional to their weight? Use at least one diagram, table, graph or equation to suppor your argument.

4. Circle any of the graphs below that represent the graph of a proportional relationship. Explain how you know.

5. This information was posted in a restaurant:

Is there a proportional relationship between the weight of a specialty burger and the price? Explain how you know.

A text book has the following definition for two quantities to be directly proportional:

We say that y is directly proportional to x if y = kx for some constant k.

Some students were asked to restate the definition in their own words and to give an example for the concept. Below are some of their answers.

Discuss each statement and example. Translate the statements and examples into equations to help you decide if they are correct.

Marcus:

This means that both quantities are the same. When one increases the other increases by the same amount. An example of this would be the amount of air in a balloon and the volume of a balloon.

• Sadie:

Two quantities are proportional if one change is accompanied by a change in the other. For example the radius of a circle is proportional to the area.

• Ben:

When two quantities are directly proportional it means that if one quantity goes up by a certain percentage, the other quantity goes up by the same percentage as well. An example could be as gas prices go up in cost, food prices go up in cost.

• Jessica:

When two quantities are proportional, it means that as one quantity increases the other will also increase and the ratio of the quantities is the same for all values. An example could be the circumference of a circle and its diameter, the ratio of the values would equal π .

Checkpoint - Proportional Relationships

Here is a recipe for making 8 doughnuts:

4 Cups of flour

1/2 Cup of milk

3/4 Cup of sugar

2 eggs

2 sticks of butter

One tablespoon of yeast

You want to make 28 doughnuts.

How much flour do you need?

How much milk do you need?

Fill in the blanks below. The prices are proportional to the amount of paint in the can.

___ $12 ___ $57.60

The poster above is 72 cm wide. How tall is it?

The building on the poster is 36 cm tall. Is it possible to figure out how tall the building is on the photograph? If you think it is possible, show how. If you think it is not, explain why.

4. 7 paperclips of various sizes weigh 1.2 grams altogether. Is the number of paperclips proportional to their weight? Use descriptions in words, diagrams, tables, graphs, and/or equations to present your case.

5. The diagram below shows drawings of 1 paper cup and 6 paper cups that have been stacked together. The cups are identical and are drawn to full size.

Your job is to investigate the relationship between the number of cups in a stack and the height of the stack. Specifically, you are asked to determine if the relationship between the number of cups in a stack and height of the stack is a proportional one. Use descriptions in words, diagrams, tables, graphs, and equations to present your case.
